

Physics 122: Practice Problem of the DayProblem #16: Ampere's Law for a Solenoid

Wednesday February 25, 2009

An infinite solenoid of radius a is made of n turns per unit length. If a current I_0 is put into the solenoid, use Ampere's Law to determine the expression for the magnetic field strength B inside the solenoid.

